The Department of Economics and Management Economics and Management Majors

Albion's economics and management major empowers students with the critical skills needed for effective decision-making, policy analysis, and leading organizational change. Grounded in a strong foundation of economics and accounting, the program expands into dynamic elective areas including marketing, management, and finance. Students learn to think strategically, assess complex systems, and adapt to evolving business environments. The curriculum emphasizes both analytical rigor and real-world application, preparing graduates to solve today's challenges and lead tomorrow's innovations. Whether pursuing corporate leadership, public policy, or graduate study, Albion students graduate ready to make an impact.

ALUMNI HIGHLIGHT

Andrew Renner '25 majored in economics and management and communications studies. He's currently working for Amazon as an area manager. He oversees nearly 150 employees with daily tasks and develops ideas to increase productivity and safety within the warehouse. He loves that he gets to work alongside a large group of people and develop new ideas that help Amazon get packages delivered as quickly as possible.

"Albion is my second home. The number of clubs and organizations I joined, as well as the experiences I received, are next to none! There is no other school that is capable of providing as many experiences as I received."

Michele Gervais '20 was an economics and management major with a minor in computer science. She was a member of the Carl A. Gerstacker Institute for Business and Management and the Prentiss M. Brown Honors Program. She was also involved in InterVarsity, held a chair position in Delta Sigma Pi business fraternity, and helped manage the women's basketball team. Michele completed an internship with Ally Financial.

Michele was recruited by PNC's development program and worked for three years with both underwriting and sales teams in Troy, Michigan. She is an associate relationship manager for a commercial team in Grand Rapids, Michigan, while working with a team to provide a wide range of financial services across west Michigan.

"I chose Albion because I knew I wanted to go into the business field and of all the schools I reviewed, Albion looked to have the program that was going to give me the best opportunity to be successful in my field. The professors have always been encouraging and work hard to help you reach your goals. I truly enjoyed my time at Albion and have gained so much from all my experiences."

Kylie Klotz '24 majored in economics and management and minored in psychological sciences. She was a member of Omicron Delta Epsilon, an Economics Honors society. She works at Edward Jones as an on-call branch office administrator.

"As an on-call BOA, I make sure the front of the office runs smoothly, helping to handle clients and their information. This position has taught me a significant amount about the financial industry and the inner workings of a financial institution.

"Albion College has been both a resource and an opportunity to help me reach my full potential in my career."
